CABOT.

The Graduation Exercises of Cabot High School.

The graduation exercises of Cabot high school took place last week. There was, first, the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, the 18th, by Rev. D. L. Hillard of the Congregational church—a very practical and yet eloquent discourse. The audience was composed of the Congregational and Methodist churches, Rev. F. E. Currier, pastor of the Methodist church, assisting. Last Wednesday evening the usual class reception was given to the graduating class. The program was arranged by the lower class students and consisted of music, vocal and instrumental, and various recitations and readings, pleasingly rendered. At the close light refreshments were served, and a pleasant social hour was passed. The closing exercises of the school year were held Friday evening, June 23. Three marked features of these exercises should be noted: (1) The music. For this service the Norma Quintette club of Burlington had been engaged. This club is composed of Madame Jordan, pianist, her three daughters, Miss Sylvia, first violin, Miss Irma, cello, Miss Marion (21 years of age), flute, and Miss Helen Barnes, second violin. Four selections were rendered by the entire quintette besides there was a violin solo by Miss Sylvia Jordan, a flute solo by Miss Marion Jordan, and a cello solo by Miss Irma Jordan, and a flute and cello duet by Misses Marion and Irma Jordan. On account of her age and the excellence of her execution, Miss Marion attracted most attention. Encores followed almost every selection, and were promptly and cheerfully responded to. (2) The prize speaking contest. The prize speaking was a marked feature of the literary portion of the program. The contestants were all prize winners in previous contests. Two prizes of $5 each were offered—one to the young men and one to the young women. Four contestants entered the lists in each class. The selections had been carefully made and contained a range of literary productions from the pure humor of James Whitcomb Riley and Mark Twain to the pathos of Edwards and Paine. The contestants had all been carefully trained. The judges were Ralph Hoyt of Cabot, Miss Boyd one of the district school teachers of the town, and Rev. W. H. H. McAllister of Tilton, N. H. One of the female contestants, Florence Eleanor Houghton, was unable to speak on account of sore throat. The parts were all carefully committed, and were delivered with but a single break in recitation. Where all did so well, the part of the judges was made difficult in the distribution of the prizes. One of these was awarded to Merrill David Barrett, the other to Jennie Elizabeth Webster.

While there was individual disappointment, the audience heartily applauded the decision. The prizes were presented by Mr. McAllister. (3) The graduation exercises. There were but two students in the graduating class: Paul Eastman Hopkins, who also took part in the prize speaking contest, and Leslie Joseph Russell. Each of these young men read a carefully prepared original essay, Hopkins choosing for his theme, "The Boy Scout Movement," and Russell, "International Peace." The diplomas were presented by Principal Gilmore with appropriate remarks. As Mr. Gilmore closes his services as principal of the Cabot high school at this time, he took occasion to make some farewell remarks, in which he expressed his strong attachment to the place and people, his delight in his work, and his regret at leaving. Mr. Gilmore has been a hard and faithful worker during his two years' charge of the high school here, and has left not only an intellectual but a strong moral impression upon the pupils who have been under his training. He has hosts of friends, parents, scholars and citizens, generally, whose good wishes will follow him wherever he may go.

Harry is one of our favorite young men, and his wife seems to be sweet and good. We wish them all there is of health and happiness in the future.

The following is submitted by Miss Evelyn Perry, who taught through the year in the Dwinell school, which closed Friday, June 23, with a picnic luncheon at the home of the director, S. H. Unwin. The pupils having perfect attendance for the term were: Mattie Dwinell, Maude Wells, Marion Unwin, Waldo Bemis, Lenora Unwin, Edith Martin, Eri Martin, Charles and Mildred Emery. Mattie Dwinell was present every day during the school year. During the year many needed improvements were made on the school building and the children have tried to show their appreciation by doing good work, while their promotion to higher grades verified that "It pays to try."

Aaron J. Brown, one of our oldest and most honored citizens, celebrated his 80th birthday, Thursday, June 22, at his home on the river road, leading to Plainfield. Mr. Brown was born in Calais, but most of his life has lived in this town, and to all who know him, is a pattern farmer—a man who is always at work, and now is about some work for himself or helping a neighbor.

Mr. Brown is the father of 11 children; all except one son are living, and nine of the ten were present on the day mentioned. The children are: Herbert H. Brown of Salisbury, Pa., who could not attend, Mrs. H. C. Howard of Lunenburg, Mrs. Henry Maxfield of Plainfield, Mrs. C. J. Thomas of Jeffersonville, Mrs. A. G. Parks of Barre, Mrs. Harley Edson of Peacham, Mrs. Bernis Phelps of this town, Miss Grace of St. Albans, Ernest Brown of Peacham, and Miss Viola, who lives at home. The most pleasant ceremony on this occasion was the marriage of Miss Grace E., the seventh daughter of Mr. Brown, to J. Henry Johnson of this town. Mr. Johnson is the eldest of the sons of Joseph Johnson, and is a young man who is thought much of in the community. Only the near relatives of the contracting parties were present. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. H. C. Howard of Lunenburg. Thirty-five guests made the occasion a very enjoyable one. Among others, Ira Brown of Worcester, a brother of father Brown, was present. All would extend hearty congratulations to Mr. Brown, wishing him many more years of health and happiness. Also, we would wish the newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson, long life of happiness and prosperity. The Johnsons will live in town.

The Marshfield graded school ninth grade graduation, which occurred last week Friday evening in village hall, was very largely attended. Taken as a whole, the class were fully deserving of the words of commendation spoken to them by the superintendent of the schools, as she gave them their diplomas. The program was as follows:

Opening music by orchestra. Prayer by Rev. M. R. Plumm of Plymouth, Conn.; salutatory, Raymond Stephen Gilman, who gave the audience a very pleasing greeting, in behalf of his classmates; reading, "The Boys," rendered very nicely by Elbridge Donald Rosebrook; vocal solo, "His Love Abideth Forever," by Miss Ruby Esther Davis, was one of the most melodious songs ever listened to, and Miss Davis did justice to the selection; reading, "Flash, the Eagle Horse," by George Clark McCrillis, rendered in a very creditable manner; reading, "Home," by Amy Madine Cameron, accompanied by the orchestra, who gave "Home Sweet Home," was very effective, and nicely done; reading, "That Peculiar Man," by Gladys Lillian Sulham, who was well adapted to render the selection; class history, Percy John Pitkin, who gave the boys and girls surprises, in revealing to the audience so many of their peculiarities, and pleased his listeners as well; vocal solo, "Forgotten," by Amy Cameron, given very sweetly, showing to a good advantage Miss Amy's voice; reading, "Vermont," by Elroy James Lyndes, a sure enough Vermont boy; essay, "Apple Culture in the New Vermont," by Harold Bemis Pike, who bids fair to do well in that vocation; class prophecy, by Clarence George Pitkin, who gave a very jolly account of his dream, "A Trip in an Airship," and the visiting of each of the class in the year; instrumental selection, George Clark McCrillis, which shows the young man to be very musical, and was rendered faultlessly; reading, selected, by Clara Bliss, given in Miss Bliss' usually sweet manner; reading, "Song of the Vermonters," given with much of the Vermont vim, by Ruby Esther Davis; valedictory and essay, "Aviation," by David Edmund Pike, who thanked the audience for their attention and gave Professor and Mrs. Saxby the thanks of the class for their untiring patience and perseverance, in getting them to the final of the ninth grade, allowing that their education, like the class motto, was, "Not Finished—Just Begun." The diplomas were then given by Miss A. L. Burnham. The hall was daintily decorated in the class color, pink, and flowers. Each graduate wore a pink carnation. The work of decoration was done by the class.
